Twice the winner of the New England Weekly Municipal Service Award

VOL 25 NO 9 LSWC TOWN CRIER - WILMINGTON, MASS. FEBRUARY 29, 1968 PRICE TEN CENTS

POLLS OPEN 10 AM SATURDAY

Instead of two candidates for the two posts in the Board of Selectmen, the voters of Wilmington, on Saturday morning, are going to have the privilege of choosing, out of three candidates.

Paul H Niles, Selectman, is again a candidate. Mr Niles had bowed out of the race some weeks ago, when he learned that he was being transferred to Washington by his company, but on Tuesday morning his name was again in the listings.

The polls, in the High School, open at 10 am, and the three serious candidates for Selectmen are now Attorny James Banda, Mrs Wavie Drew, and Paul Niles.

In the School Committee race, none of the candidates are at present on the Board. The three candidates are John Brooks, former Selectman, Mrs Mildred Wolff, a candidate last year, and Walter McNamara, a member of the Wilmington Housing Authority.

There are no other contested positions.

DR GERALD S DAVIS AT OPTOMETRIC ASSOCIATION

Dr. Gerald S Davis of Main St was among the registrants at the two-day program sponsored by the American Optometric Association in St Louis, Mo, this week.

This was a national optometric conference devoted to the role of professional vision care in federal state and local health care programs with more than 100 doctors of optometry and government officials in attendance.

Conference registrants also participated in discussions and workshop sessions on neighborhood health center programs, and comprehensive health planning.

DEN MOTHERS ARE HONORED: Barbara Doucette and Joyce Dalton receive their four-year pins from Chairman John Arvanitis, at the Blue & Gold Banquet of Cub Scout Pack 59, held last Friday in the Methodist Church.

THE OLD WATER PROBLEM

Many words have been wasted in the past year over the problem of water in cellars. The Planning Board, leaning over backwards, investigated itself, and investigated every charge, of value or otherwise, relating to one project, and fojnd that it had acted correctly in every instance, according to law.

It is true that people get water in their cellars, especially when those cellars are dug into clay hillsides.

Almost every hillside in Wilmington, and in Middlesex County, has clay in it. Some are of gravel, but clay can be found wherever the old glaciers scoured the old mountains of New England.

The Plannfng Board is now having a survey conducted, by the Soil Conservation Service. When completed it will be a detailed map and analysis of the soils of Wilmington.

It will be of value, but not in the way some people are leading themselves to believe. It will not enable people to drain, per se, clay hillsides, or clay bottoms. It will not relieve the problems of wet cellars except possibly in a few instances.

As of the present time the problems of wet cellars belongs to the builders, and eventually to the persons who buy the homes. That is a harsh statement but it is also a fact of life, and life is sometimes harsh.

The old Irish stonemasons of half a century ago knew the problem, and the answer. It was, to them, an art. There is an interesting cellar of a barn, off Woburn Street, more than 130 years old, which was built by the famed Asa G Sheldon, and which employed the same tactics the Irish stonemasons used half a century ago.

In both cases the cellars were 'elevated' - lifted, if the reader pleases, off the gound, and above the underlying clay.

Practical use of local knowledge was the key in those cases.

The home owners of Wilmington should not be too hopeful of the results of the coming Soil Survey.

On the other hand it will be of value to the Town Engineer, and it may be of value to the Board of Health. It will serve a useful purpose, in being another tool for the officials of Wilmington, in their future planning.

THE TOWN MANAGER'S PRIORITY

Town Manager Sterling Morris spoke yesterday in the Rotary Club in what was really his first public talk in Wilmington.

There was no particular subject, but he did speak of how he allocates his budgeting, and his Capital Improvement planning.

Members of the Wilmington Finance Committee have spoken highly of the 1968 Town Budget, prepared by Mr Morris. They say it is an excellent piece of work.

But his priority in Capital Improvement planning is worth reporting. It goes this way:

1. Power and Water - two essentials of any community life. 2. Protection of Persons and Property. 3. Health, Education and Welfare. 4. Transportation and allied facilities, and 5, Labor and othe items.

THE PHEARLESS PHORECAST

Each year at this time the Town Crier issues its Phearless Phorecast on the annual election.

There are those who have got to the point of believing that the Town Crier is infallible. So far the luck has held, but one of these years the Phearless Phorecast may be wrong - and 1968 may be that year.

Until Monday there was no problem. Other than Niles there were Banda and Mrs Drew as serious candidates. The fourth, Mr Greene, is a perennial who never draws many votes.

The only question was: What would a supporter of Banda, and Banda only, or Mrs Drew, and Mrs Drew only, do with their extra vote? Was it possible that, for a joke, they could throw it to the fourth person, and if a few hundred supporters of the two principal candidates thought this was funny, would Mr Greene be elected by mischance?

Now that Paul Niles is back in the race, as of Monday, that question doesn't exist any more. There will be much less 'joke voting', and the race will be between three, instead of two.

The vote will be light. If there are less than 2400 votes cast it will probably be Banda and Mrs Drew. If there are over 2400 Niles may be in, until the day he leaves for Washington.

Then, the question is: What will happen when Niles leaves?

In the event Niles is elected, when he leaves for Washington it will be up to the Board of Selectmen to elect a person to take his place. There will be no special election.

School Committee

Here the race is different. When the names of the three candidates became known, a few weeks ago, the first reaction the Town Crier ran into was: Well, I'm going to vote for Mitzi Wolff, and to heck with the other two candidates.

But then the voters began to realize that another candidate would be elected too, and that that candidate could be John Brooks. Mr Brooks had over 1400 votes six years ago when he ran for Selectman, and even if that vote was cut to about 800 when he ran three years ago, when the voters became disenchanted with his oratory, he still had 800 votes.

And that's a sizeable amount.

So recently the Town Crier has been running into

Town League Basketball

This season is now history, the finals have been played and the champs are known.

In the first game the boys of Northeastern outscored the U of Mass 27 to 14. In the first quarter the U of Mass outscored the Northies, but Northeastern came back to outrun them to lead at the half time 10 to 9. In the second half, Northeastern just wouldn't let their opponenets through.

The patriots who completed a full season without defeat won over the Chargers 25 to 14. The Chargers led at half time, but ran into trouble in the fourth quarter when their top rebounded Roger Poirier found himself with five fouls.

To round out a good day, the Lakers held off the Celtics to win 35 to 33. At the half, the score was 16 to 15, with the Lakers gaining in the third quarter. But in the final quarter, the Celtics came back again with 13 to 10.

Hate to state the word finals, but all the boys were gentlemen and on Friday night March 15, the annual banquet will be held at the Elks Hall in Tewksbury.

Tch tch, folks. Haven't seen but one bag of scrap yarn, and those gals are really knitting their heads off for the Veterans' Lap Robes for the VA Hospital, so how about getting after your sisters, your cousins, and your aunts, for their scrap yarn, or new yarn, and leave it with me at the Depot. It won't work without YOU!

Stopped to see Nellie Thompson at her home and her diningroom has changed into a veritable workshop for these afghans. She had some beautiful ones made up and the Christmas Gremlin really can go, because she has made another one this week. We also had two more volunteers to knit--one gal that has six or seven kids and a retired young lady, with a willingness to knit. However, we can't expect these gals to foot the bill for the yarn. The afghans cost about $5.00 per each for just the material, so you see, I really do need YOU, and YOU, and YOU! Help...help...help! Thanks a bunch!

Our Crusaders took 3rd Place in Class A2, and the Swordsmen took 3rd Place in Class C at the contest last Thursday night in Braintree. On Saturday night in Boston, the Crusaders took 2nd Place in Calss A2 and the Swordsmen took 3rd Place in Class C. (Nice going there, Group!) We are looking for new kids to join each group. Age bracket is 13-21 for the Crusaders on Tuesday nights at the Boutwell Street School and the Swordsmen 8-13 years on Sunday or Thursday nights at the Grange Hall.

Girl Scout Troop 389 had a skating party at the MDC Rink in Saugus on Monday the 19th. Joining the girls and assisting with the driving were Mrs Lothian, Mrs Gilligan, Mrs Burt, and Mrs Dec. Afterwards the troop came back to the Congregational Church for hot chocolate and cookies. The Troop is under the leadership of Mrs Richard Morrissette, Mrs Francis Hughes and Mrs Hugo Wiberg.

The Cadette Girl Scout Troop 206 will be selling their Scout Cookies in Silver Lake Pharmacy on Saturday and Sunday this week. So, if you were missed in the order taking, drop in to Louie's on Rt 38 at Silver Lake Shopping Center and pick yours up!

The Council of Churches is sponsoring the World Day of Prayer at the Baptist Church on Friday, March 1st at 7:30 pm. Mrs John Williams will be giving a Chalk Talk and everyone is invited.

The Oratorical Finals will be held at the Wilmington High School Auditorium, on Sunday, March 3, at 2:30 pm, by the American Legion. We're anxious to hear this. Understand this is going to be a close one!

Have had several phone calls from the mothers of the Junior Class. Seems that the Prom is being held this year at the Montvale Plaza from 8:30 to 11:45, with a Roast Beef Dinner in April and the tariff will be $18.00 per couple...This is upsetting to almost everyone. Because of the price, many of the kids will have to stay at home, or settle for something else. Had a young fellow at our house go to the Sr Prom last year and he told us that it cost him almost $30 by the time the evening was out and since he had to miss work too, it cost him really $50. Now, we have two sophomores at our house, and if things go up proportionately, so that it costs $25 per couple next year, they'll either have to go together, or there won't be any food for the Clan that week. That's too much!

The Rainbow Girls will be holding their Anniversary Banquet on March 9th at 6:30 at the North Intermediate School. It will commence at 6:30 and the tickets are $3.00 per person. It will be a Turkey Dinner, is the 25th Anniversary, and reservations can be made by calling 658-8719.

Don't forget the Girl Scout Paper Drive from the Methodist Church Parking Lot on Saturday, March 2.

Hear that one of the stores downtown had a ten lb Hersey Chocolate Bar which was donated to the Youth Center at St Thomas and this was raffled. Richard Weed won it, and he was so surprised that he had promised chunks to all of his friends. Got a hammer and chisel Richard? The operation will take place in the yard at Cunningham Street, we trust?

Had two great times this week. Was a judge at the Jaycee's Battle of the Bands with Rev Tadgell and Jimmy Tighe. It really was a lot of fun, although don't know whether or not my ears are back to normal. The Lost Generation which was evidently made up of mostly WHS'ers took the prize. I admit it was somewhat difficult to make the decisions, since some of the amplifiers were up so high, the guitars cut out the singers. However, that may be a good point for all of them to take into consideration. It would pay for them to take turns during rehearsals standing off and listening to get those amplifiers just right. But, there was a great bunch of kids and a lot of talent there, we are sure.

The other social event for this week was The Cub Scout Banquet. The boys made their own decorations for their own tables, their Dens that is, and it was great. A very tasty supper as well. The awards were made and the folks and kids had a great time!

DID YOU KNOW THAT...Joe Medico has returned home to Federal Street to recuperate. Welcome home, Joe. (You heard about that blooper, no doubt. I had him in the wrong hospital. My, my! I sure am slipping)...Richard Severin of Cypress Street is in the VA Hospital in Jamaica Plain for a while and would like to see those cards from you folks...Tom McNamara, son of Mrs Amelia Ferreira, 28 Main Street has completed his helicopter repair course at the Army Transporation School. Wife Evelyn is at home at 106 West Street in Wilmington.

Gals, don't forget this will be the last opportunity to tell you to register any 5 year old that you may suspect has a speech difficulty for the Kiwanis Speech Clinic to be held in the High School on March 4, 5, and 6. Either write to Kiwanis Club, PO Box 193, Wilmington, Mass., or call Mr Harold Garrett, or Miss Pat Burnes at the High School for further information.

We hear that Attys John F Zamparelli of Medford and Robert A Stanziani of Boston are preparing to argue before the State Supreme Court on March 4 for new trials for their respective clients, Wm G Sullivan of Charlestown and George A Reissfelder of Jamaica Plain, serving life terms for the October, 1966, murder of Railway Express Agency guard Michael S Shaw of Wilmington and robbing him and a co-worker of $20,000 payroll. The lifers were arrested by the 'fearsome foursome,' Dets Ed Caruso, John Nee, John Cunningham and Ed Donovan of the robbery squad. Only a week or so ago, Caruso, Nee, and Cunningham, now the 'fearsome threesome,' made arrests that seem to have ended the series of in-town hotel holdups.

Had a letter from Al Lawrence this week from overseas: 'Hi Nancy, I received your Christmas Card a while back. You'll have to forgive me for not writing sooner It was just a case of forgetfulness

'We've been in the Caribbean since we pulled out of Norfolk, Virginia, on Dec. 4th. Our first stop was Morehead City, N.C. to load Marine Supplies; then we left for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for a briefing and also to relieve the squadron which had been down here since August. (There are six ships in our Squadron.)

We spent Dec 15th to Jan 4th in San Juan, P.R. This was so far the best liberty port we've hit. From there, we went to Charlotte Amalle, the capital of St Thomas, V.I. Our next port was Willenstad, Airacau. This is a small island 38 miles off the coast of Venezuela. Curacau was previously owned by the Dutch and shows much of their influence. From there, we went to Colon Panama. This city is on the Atlantic side of the Canal and is 48 miles from the capitol, Panama City. In Panama City, it is possible to buy such items as televisions, steros, tape recorders and radios duty free, saving quite a bit over prices in the States. We also toured the Canal from the Pacific side at Panama City.

'After leaving Panama, we sailed for Kingstown, St Vincent, where we are presently. From here, we have three more ports left before heading back for the states on Mar 17th. We revisit Charlotte Amalie St Thomas and San Juan and finish up with Frederihsted, St Croix.

'I'd like to thank you again for the Christmas Card you sent. It was deeply appreciated. I only wish that I had written sooner.

'Sincerely, Al Lawrence'

(That's ok, Al. Haven't been getting much mail from the boys lately. Guess they are all too busy. It's great to hear from one at least that is having a good time on his tour. Your letter sounds like a South Seas Cruise and we surely do envy you! This has been a long cold and dreary winter in the States--at least in New England...so cold, even the outdoor stuff hasn't been much fun! Drop in to see us when you get home!)

The girls and leaders of the Cadette Girl Scout Troop 354 have asked me to thank all of those who helped with the Fashion Show that was held recently. You have really helped them to go a few miles closer to Washington. Nice going folks!

Speaking of Scouts, the Cadette Troop 386 will be holding a rummage sale on Saturday, March 2 from 9:30 am to 4:00 pm at the South Tewksbury Methodist Church on Main Street in South Tewksbury. There will be a refreshment counter too. So drop in and see what the gals have on Saturday!

What do you know about this one, Folks? The Boss says to save this issue of the old Town Crier, because the next time that it will be printed on Thursday, February 29, will be 28 years from now! How about that...and this gal is planning a trip to the moon at the turn of the century so that may be her last edition!

World Day of Prayer

On Friday evening at 7:30, March 1st, there will be a World Day of Prayer at the First Baptist Church

The speaker will be Mrs John Williams, who is a chalk talk artist from Burlington.

Every one is invited.

Selectmen's Meeting

The first hour of the Selectmen's Meeting, Monday Night, was public hearings. Forty nine assorted citizens, some of them being present really for the second hearing, were in the Town Hall to hear the arguments, and to participate, in a second hearing for the Bursaw Oil Company for a gas station at the corner of Woburn and Lowell Streets.

Bursaw put the price of the proposed first portion of a motel and a gas station at $600,000 of which $50,000 would be for the gas station.

Selectman Miceli wanted to know if it would be agreeable to restrict the license until after the occupancy permit had been issued for the motel. This was agreeable to Bursaw.

Selectman George Boylen wanted to know if there was to be repair service. Bursaw said it was only to be a service station.

Wilson Belbin, who had supported the previous hearing for a gas station, at a different site, had 50 signatures opposing this one. He told the Selectmen that the Town Meeting had had a 'no gas station' intent, for the people.

Selectman Paul Niles said that the decision was not up to the people, and Boylen said that the people were aware that it was a rezoning. Stanley Webber made a long statement saying that with no gas station available there would be no motel. He also went on to talk about assessments and taxes in Wilmington, with no monies from increased business. Belbin asked Webber if he proposed to get the money from gas stations, no matter who got killed on the corners.

Mrs Carol Frost of Lowell St spoke several times. In the first instance she asked for a 'reversal' of the plan, because 'the corner is terrible'. She made it clear that she was not against gas stations as such. Mrs Frost later reminded the board quite forcibly that the money for Lowell Street widening would come from Chapter 90 Funds, and that in previous Town Meeting, this had been voted against.

Mrs Madelyn McKie, making it clear that she spoke as an individual, asked what the Board's policy was, with regard to filling stations. Niles told her that he doubted that the Board had a right to establish a policy, since they could not locate one everywhere, and it was the property owners' privilege to request.

Niles then moved that the Selectmen not grant a permit. This was followed by a bit of comedy, when one of the spectators thought she was part of the Selectmen's meeting, and seconded the motion.

But no Selectman seconded Niles and the motion was lost. Mrs Drew moved to take the question under advisement, and Niles spoke up to say clearly that he wished to be recorded as opposed until there was a discussion and hearing on a 'completed plan'.

The Selectmen voted four to nothing (Black being absent) to take the case undeer advisement and George Boylen added that the Selectmen do not vote on such issues until a full board is present.

Hatch Act

The second hearing was a Hatch Act Hearing for Kenwood Avenue A few of the spectators at the first hearing left before this one was really underway.

The builder represented himself, and told the Selectmen that he wished to drop the brook that goes through the area for a total of three feet, where it crosses under West Street.

Questions from Mrs Drew brought out that he had no plans for drainage from the railroad to the Ipswich River, and Miceli said that the Builder must assume the expense, because the town could not be expected to.

The only way he would vote for it, Miceli said, was if it would remedy the present sites.

Boylen made a motion to disapprove, and Niles seconded it. All four Selectmen then voted to disapprove, after which the builder made an almost sotto voice statement that he could go on and build anyway. This disturbed Niles and Boylen, and Boylen said that they would send the Board of Health down in the morning, while Niles said to notify the Town Counsel of the attitude of the appellant.

After the meeting went back to the regular meeting room, the first item of business was from the Compat Construction Company, which wanted a new permit, or an extension of its present one, for a gravel excavation off Burlington Avenue, on the Roberts Estates.

The Selectmen were told that due to the weather and sickness, the desired excavations had not been completed, and that at the present time there was a market for the material.

Niles made a motion to extend the permit on the same terms, and he was asked to make it six months.

Boylen wanted to know where the fill was going. He did not get an answer. Mrs Drew wanted to know how many acres were in the Roberts Estate, and she was told 56.

John Comeau, one of the partners, told the Selectmen that it wasn't really a gravel operation, and Mr Patenaude made it clear that they were really dealing with rock, and that there would have to be blasting before they had cleared out the area they wanted cleared.

Boylen then brought up the fact that there would be fill needed for some parts of the proposed real estate development, and that he felt the developers should retain fill for this purpose. Niles insisted that Boylen had a point, and moved that a sufficient stockpile of loam and gravel be used, and when the Town Engineer felt that this had been done, Messrs Patenaude and Comeau could come in and renew their permit.

Patenaude pointed out again that the material he was excavating wasn't suitable for the kind of fill needed in a real estate development as he proposed it. There were boulders, he said, that would have to be blasted.

Chairman Danny Gillis of the Planning Board had been sitting in the back of the room, trying to get the attention of Miceli. Miceli finally recognized him.

After commending Boylen's thoughts, Gillis told the Selectmen that the Planning Board had never had a preliminary plan for the proposed real estate development. One had been shown to the Planning Board, but never seen since.

Until this happened, Gillis said, he did not feel that any fill should be moved. He referred to an advertisement for fill, by Mr Patenaude, in the Town Crier.

Patenaude told the Selectmen that he had a total of four pits, and he was advertising gravel from a pit out of town.

The operation in back of his home - well it was in back of his home and he didn't want a mess there. He needed another three months to clean up the site.

Niles said he didn't realize that there was no plan on file with the Planning Board. Patenaude said that Gillis had been on the site, and had seen the plans, and a topographic map of the area.

On the motion of Boylen, the Board disapproved, with the subject to be reopened when the definitive plans had been filled with the Planning Board.

Other Business

Drawn for the Jury Pool at Cambridge, for April 1 were Richard D Howlett, 32 Glen Road (Chairman of the Board of Appeal) and Marjorie Morton of 294 Shawsheen Avenue.

The Board was told that James Donahue, Chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority, was drawing up an agreement with the Town Counsel for payment in lieu of taxes, for the Old Age Housing Project.

Niles made a motion to approve the proposed gravel operations of Morey and DeLoury, on Andover Street, subject to the restrictions as suggested by the Town Engineer No one seconded it, so it lost. Later Boylen made a motion to reconsider, and again no one seconded it, so that too lost.

Elwood Road and Jere Road will be the only two streets to appear in the Warrant Article of the Town Meeting for acceptance of streets under the Betterment Plan. Miceli said that the inhabitants of the other two streets, Alan Court and Beeching Avenue had unanimously voted against acceptance.

Niles commended that the Town Manager and Building Superintendent had taken care of the blackboard problem in the Walker School over the weekend. Now he said, they were fine.

Boylen said that two of the Selectmen might be retiring, and that he wanted them to know he had enjoyed working with them, and hoped that they felt they had accomplished something over the past three years. Chairman Miceli then read a speech on his year as Chairman, and how he felt that there had been progress in the town.

Planning Board

The Wilmington Planning Board and the Board of Health, together with the Town Sanitarian, the Town Engineer and the Building Inspector spent a total of one hour and forty minutes, Tuesday night, exploring methods whereby they might be able to do something to prevent builders from having water in the cellars of new homes - and arrived Exactly Nowhere.

Bill Stickney, at the very beginning, defined it in part as being a problem of elevation of cellars, and he was told by the Sanitarian Ernie Romano, that this was not a problem of the Board of Health because they have no regulations that pertain to water in cellars.

Town Engineer, Arthur Harding told of an instance in Wakefield where a developer made an agreement with the Planning Board, on one street, whereby minimum elevations were established - but it was at the instance of the developer, and was by agreement only.

There might be possibly a moral obligation, Harding said, but there was nothing whereby any Planning Board had any control of a subdivision, other than the streets themselves.

The Sanitarian, Ernie Romano, went on to say that the builders of homes must submit data when they put in the septic systems, so that presumably they have water tables from their engineers, but that the Board of Health is in control only of the septic systems.

The Town Building Inspector, Ray McClanahan pointed out that septic systems might work perfectly, and still water get in cellars. He could point out cases of houses on hills getting water in the cellar three years after they were built.

He didn't feel that he could tell a builder the height or level that he could use, for his construction - it might be wrongly interpreted, if anything went wrong. Romano: People expect it, and yet we are not responsible.

Chairman Gillis then remarked that the Planning Board has a modification of plans, on which they are to give an answer by the 15th of March. It involves a stream that crosses West Street, and goes onto the railroad and the Ipswich River he said.

Last night (Monday), Gillis reported, the Board of Selectmen voted No, on a Hatch Act Hearing - but we have a legal document on our hands - and it is possible that what was proposed may help the drainage system. If we refuse we may hang ourselves - and if we allow it--

Romano said that the Board of Health was not in a position to make comparisons, because 'I don't know what the new part is like.' He and Gillis thought it was better if the Board of Health did their job on a 'lot by lot recommendation'. Romano said that the Board of Health has to rely on the builders, as they go ahead - 'I don't know just how we can initiate action'.

Chairman Durkee of the Board of Health hoped that there might be a way - 'maybe we need some mechanism'.

Stickney: If you initiate action beyond the limits of Sub-Division Control, you subject yourself to litigation - and I'm sure that's not required of us.

The possibility of telling builders the level they must use was explored for a few minutes.

Roy McClanahan said it would take a change in the law, and he didn't know if he or any other building inspector would want it, as it would put them in the position of guaranteeing the work of others.

He pointed out that the Federal Government is becoming more and more liberal with its codes and 'I would rather see them stricter'.

Gillis: So if we go along with it (the new subdivision) we will have the wrath of the Board of Selectmen, and if we don't, we will be facing litigation - and if we lost the case, it would be just so much worse, for the builders could go ahead of their own free will.

He and others agreed that the decision of the night before, made by the Selectmen, was in effect political in nature. They (the Selectmen) didn't give any reasons--they just said No. I'll make my decision as a member of this Planning Board on the facts.

After the Board of Health had left there was still some more discussion - not of what could be done, but what some of the people who were affected could have done.

The Town Engineer told of one resident who, when he was shown how to place a drain near his home was only too glad to keep an eye on it, and how this had greatly changed the water problem in his area. Then a story was told of an inspection of a house where the water was probably 18 inches deep in the cellar, and a question asked as to the sump pump, only to have the owner indignantly say he wouldn't have a sump pump.

Other Business

Mr Gillis noted that there was information now that in all subsequent real estate developments the New England Telephone Company planned to make all of its installations underground.

He went on - 'Somebody else is going to be Chairman of this Committee after the Town Meeting - so make up your minds!'

A plan was received for the subdivision of the lot of land between the railroad and Main Street, formerly Wilmington Ford, and the site of Ricky's Dog House now. The plan would cut up the land into three lots, and was submitted for Richard Rogers and Albert Lenzi.

Gillis noted that the leaching field for the Ricky's Dog House was in one of the other lots, according to his information. The Board decided to put off signing for a week, while the Town Engineer investigated.

Gillis read a letter reporting on action by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce relative to the Small Lots Bill that the Wilmington Planning Board had before the State Legislature last week. Gillis didn't like the report 'If he didn't have anything to say,' Gillis blurted, 'Why didn't he just say so?'

Stickney thought that the Department of Commerce was 'just clouding the issue - doesn't make sense.'

Mrs McKie thought that perhaps 'they should have been clued in.'

Gillis (angrily): They were! I had a very long conversation with ----(the signer of the letter) just a month ago.

There was a letter from Senator Ronald MacKenzie, with a copy of a 1967 statute having to do with gravel. The fines were $25, $50 and $100, for violation.

Stickney: Why didn't they make a good stiff penalty - like say - cutting off the left arm?

The Board read letters of support, from Planning Boards of other Towns, in addition to those that they had received before. In the latest list were the Towns of Wellfleet, Wrentham, Wilbraham, and Saugus, and some others that were not named.

The owner of a lot of land on Sudbury Street had asked T M Morris for the right to purchase an adjoining lot (Lot 21) owned by the Town, and the T M asked the Planning Board for comments.

The Board noted that there were two lots adjacent, 20 and 21, and thought that to sell one of them to an abuttor would be to create a 50 foot lot - just the thing they were trying to stop. They voted to so write and tell the Town Manager.

Mrs McKie, on her own request was given the task of making up a display for the voters, to show the advantages of purchasing the four lots near Hathaway Acres, in the Town Meeting, for future recreational and conservation purposes.

Simplified Claims for Medicare

When Medicare first started on July 1, 1966, there were two ways for older people to get their doctor's bills paid under the program. The first called for the doctor to aggree to claim the 80 per cent payment directly from Medicare. The other required that the beneficiary first pay the bill and then apply for the Medicare payment.

Congress has now changed this to eliminate the necessity for the beneficiary paying the bill first, in cases where the doctor decides not to make the claim himself. Beginning January 1, 1968, all the beneficiary needs is an itemized bill--not an itemized, receipted bill as in the past.

Of course, the assignment-to the doctor method is still the simplest method for all concerned. Under this method, the doctor files the claim for payment and agrees to accept the 'reasonable charge' determined by the carrier, as his full charge, and the basis of the 80% payment made to him. The patient is responsible for the other 20%, plus any part of the $50 annual deductible that may remain.

Even if the doctor declines to accept an assignment, it can be to his advantage to use the 'request for payments' form instead of his standard receipted bill in the case of Medicare Beneficiaries. Experience has shown that payments can be processed much faster when the form is used.

This, in turn, will result in the beneficiary's receiving his Medicare check sooner, with its proceeds passed along that much sooner to the physician. All the doctor needs do is complete Part II of the 'Request for Payments' form. That will serve as the itemized bill which the patient can send in, to claim his payment.

A June wedding is planned.

LAST FRIDAY'S CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DINNER was the best ever, according to all who were present, about 200 guests. The speaker, shown above, was Bob Kennedy, of WBZ-TV.

The puzzle is: Where did Lillian Woodside, of the Wilmington Center Pharmacy go? She was seated beside her husband, at right, but is not to be seen in the picture, unless the reader has very sharp eyes.

Chevrolet Announces 'Torque-Drive'

Chevrolet has developed a low cost transmission that provides effortless driving for the economy-minded buyer.

Named 'Torque-Drive' it eliminates the clutch pedal, offers comparable fuel economy to the regular three-speed manual transmission and has a list price of $65.00.

It is being offered on all Camaro and Chevy II Nova models with six-cylinder engines. Manufacture has already begun and first deliveries will be in March.

E. M. Estes, General Manager, announced that the low priced models of the top selling small cars were chosen for the installation because buyers take the base three-speed manual transmission on almost one-third of six cylinder Camaro and Chevy II Nova models.

Estes also told newsmen that Chevrolet is adding three 3-seat station wagon models to its Chevelle line. And to combat the high theft rate among Corvettes, Chevrolet has developed an anti-theft option which sounds a hidden horn whenever there is illegal entry to the engine or passenger compartments.

YOUR Pharmacist SPEAKS

By Louie

Where do drugs come from? How are they developed?

To answer the first question we have to go vack many centuries. Traditionally the source of pharmacological products has been Mother Nature - the leaves, barks, seeds, and roots of plants found all over the world. Long before medicine even approached the state of being a science these materials were being used in a wide variety of mixtures and forms. Occasionally some of the mixtures did effect a semblance of a cure.

Today, the search for new drugs from plants is a continuing and highly organized operation. Investigators travel to tropical jungles and far northern woods gathering up soil samples, seeds, roots and leaves. Then they bring samples of it back to the laboratory.

The final step is to evaluate the effect of using such a drug for general human treatment.

Bruce Camber has:

A Skiing Club in South Carolina

Bruce Camber of Chestnut Street is a Junior, in Wofford College, in South Carolina.

And Bruce has done something that is unexpected, at least in the ordinary way of thinking.

He has organized a Ski Club in South Carolina - the land of Palmettos and other sub-tropical plants.

Not only has Bruce organized a ski club in that South Carolina college, but he also organized the first Southeastern Intercollegiate Ski Competition, which was held in North Carolina just a few weeks ago.

His activities were the subject of a long column on the Sports Page of the Spartanburg (SC) Herald, on January 30th.

It related how Bruce went to Cataloochee, N.C. as a freshman, to get some skiing in at the first ski resort in that state, just started He spent the night in a cell in the Sheriff's jail, because there were no other accomodations, and next day he went skiing.

And he organized fellow students into a Ski Club.

The Wofford Ski Club was not planned to be a part of the organized sports of Wofford College, but rather a club like the German Club and other such activities.

But Bruce got forty students in to the club, and the movement just sort of grew.

And there was an informal but ambitious program, on the Seven Devils Ski Area, at Boone, N.C. during January, after which the Southeastern Intercollegiate Ski Conference was formed.

The Ski Tournament was a success, and Bruce is now thinking of interesting the athletic directors of the area schools in forming ski teams, as an intercollegiate sport.

And, the story says, Bruce will probably succeed.

THE ORGANIZER OF THE SOUTHEASTERN SKI CONFERENCE: Bruce Camber (center), with two other members of the Wofford Ski Club, Peter Darling (left) and Dean Potter.

207 In The Service

The latest count of the Town Crier gives a total of 207 men from Wilmington in the Armed Forces of the United States on February first.

This is the most complete check that the Town Crier has made to date. There are probably a few missing names, and there are most certainly a few missing addresses.

For instance, the Town Crier has just this week received the address of Russ Brady of 98 Church Street. The Town Crier knew that Russ was in Vietnam, because Jim Webster, who wrote a letter saying that he had seen Russ. Jimmy is busy smoking cigars and otherwise keeping himself busy as a Yoeman-Seaman in a Naval Station near DaNang.

Russ is a Hospital Corpsman attached to a SeaBea outfit near DaNang, and has been over there a month. His mother wrote him and asked what he wanted, and he wrote back to say 'All I want is the Town Crier'. So now Russ will get it too.

He found out about Jimmy Webster through a clipping of the Town Crier that his mother had sent. Jimmy, it turned out, was only 20 minutes away.

Keith Arnold, now a Lance Corporal in the Marine Corps, and stationed on the USS Wasp, has been around the home town a lot because the Wasp was stationed in Boston. But now the Wasp has gone to sea - and so has Keith.

Mike Kasabuski, serving on a Navy LST is back home from a Caribbean cruise, where he was in training with a group of Marines. LSTs are a type of cargo carriers. Some Navy boys say it means Large Slow Target.

Jimmy Jillette of Veranda Ave. is in the Coast Guard, serving, so it is said, on the Cutter Hamilton, but the Town Crier has no confirmation.

Walter Bahia of Marcia Road is in Formosa - but there is no address. And Dave Sonier (he of the drums) and Joseph Giddings are at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. No address, though!

Neil Hendrickson of Grace Drive was in the Town Crier office recently. He was serving on the USS Intrepid (airplane carrier) but now is going to be serving up in the mountains of Colorado, at the Lowry Air Force Base, for about five months. That's something - a Navy man at an Air Force Base.

Correction: It isn't. The youngest son of the publisher of the Town Crier is serving at Port Hueneme in California, and in a recent letter he described how Air Force men were going to a Navy school there. It wouldseem that there is now some interchange between the various services.

One of the minor troubles that the Town Crier has is that of men who are receiving the paper not sending notice about a new address The Town Crier is mailed to about half those in the service. When it is not received the Post Office exacts a dime fine, for having to return it. If the men will send their forwarding address they will get the Town Crier more promptly.

Orrin Lawson is an instance. He has been transferred from New Cumberland Pa to some other place and the Town Crier paid a dime to find out, without getting his new address!

The Town Crier is happy to again have the address of Lt. Tom O'Toole, United States Marines, in Vietnam. Town Crier readers will remember when he received the Bronze Star, a few months ago.

Sergeant James O'Hara of the Marines is home, as is his brother John, of the Navy. Both live on South Street, and it doesn't seem to have been four years ago that they left Wilmington High School to serve Uncle Sam.

George Bright is serving on the USS Hunley, which, as far as the Town Crier knows, is the only vessel in the US Navy named for a Confederate vessel - the CSS Hunley, a submarine, which sank a Union vessel during the blockade of Charleston, in the Civil War. The Hunley, appropriately, is a Submarine Tender.

Joseph Castaldo, whose address is care of the Fleet Post Office in New York, would sound as though he were out on the briny - but he is really serving in the Philadelphia Navy Yard on an aircraft carrier which will stay in Philly for the next two years, getting a new deck or something. That's what you can call Tough Duty.

The Mystery Soldier, the one who wrote that poem which was printed in the week in which the death of Jack Fullerton was announced, has been identified!

L Mc is Lawrence McNamara of Main Street - and the Town Crier wants his picture, to publish.

Tommy DeFelice, who not too long ago was chasing around on the playing fields of Wilmington High School, is now in Germany, with an Army Tank unit.

And home from Germany is Ken Paglia, of Nichols Street.

Billy Pierce is over in Vietnam again, on his second tour of duty in that country. He is in the Seabees.

Paul Ethier, now down in Virginia, serving in the Army, expects to go back to Vietnam very soon.

In A Word . . .

Sediment

When a pharmacist picks up a bottle containing a liquid preparation, he may sometimes note that some of the ingredients have settled to the bottom.

That's how the word "sediment" was born. It literally refers to the settling down process—being derived from the Latin word sedere which means "to sit down" or "to settle down."

Ann Medelinskas is an Inspiration

Miss Ann L Medelinskas, First Grade teacher in the Woburn Street School is an Inspiration.

Grade Teacher, a professional magazine published in New York City so describes her. It says she is an inspiration to educators of all grade levels.

But more than that Miss Medelinskas is an inspiration to her pupils.

The secret is that she treats them as Grown-Ups - and that's a lot of responsibility for youngsters in the first grade.

Her pupils start the day by singing 'The Marine's Hymn'. They like it, too.

They are never 'talked down to'. Instead they are given responsibilities, and they respond accordingly.

Something on the floor? A child, without being told, will pick it up. A dirty spot on a desk? No instructions are needed - the child who has that desk cleans it up.

It is a marvelous and well behaved class, and the children seem ready to go on to bigger and better things.

Miss Medelinskas lives in Lawrence, and has been teaching in the Wilmington Schools for six years. Two of those years was at the Whitefield School, and the last four at the Woburn Street School.

She is a graduate of the Lawrence Schools, and Lowell State College.

Tuesday morning she was presented with a Certificate, from the Grade Teacher magazine, with Wilmington's Superintendent of Schools, Harold Shea, doing the honors.

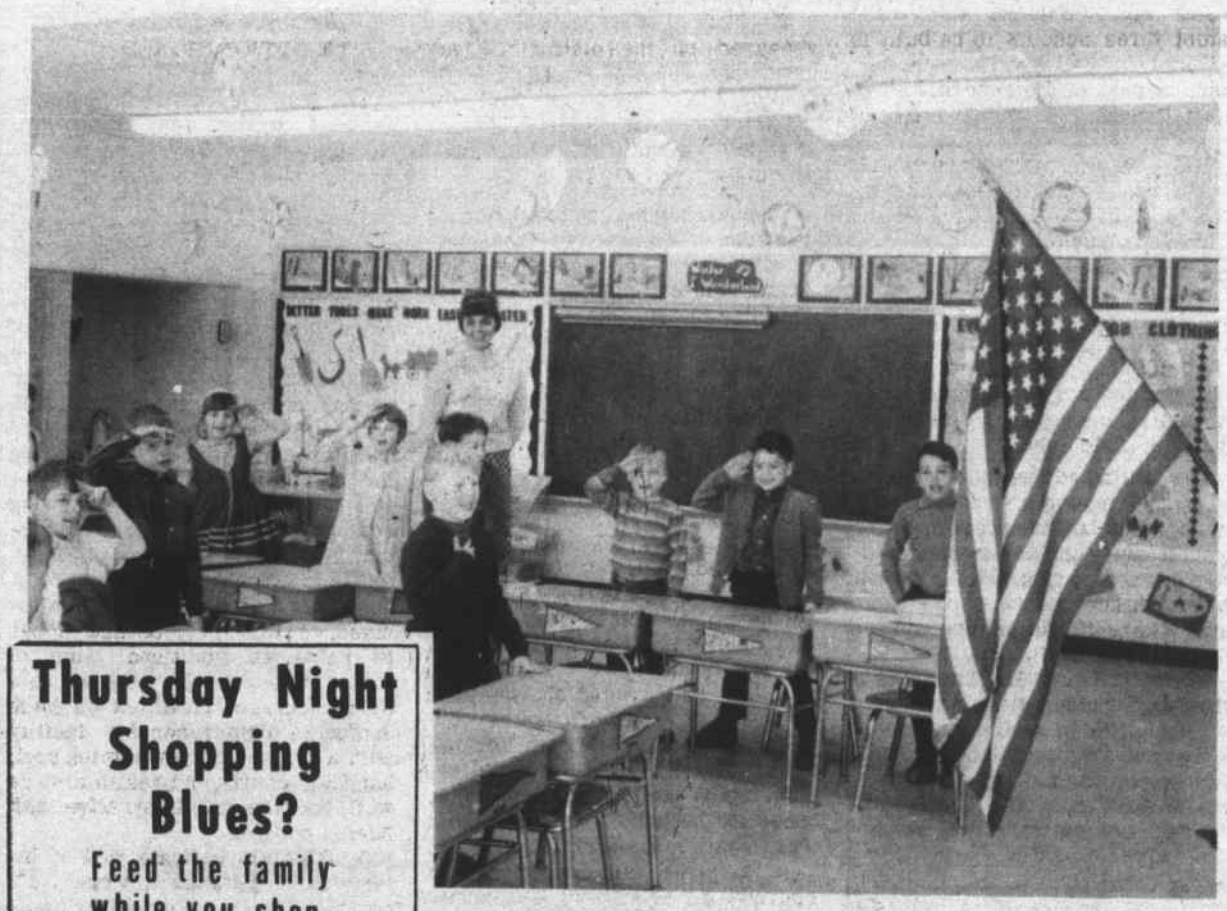

The certificate is one of 180 which are being given to the outstanding teachers of the nation.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS HAROLD SHEA: Presents Miss Medelinskas with her certificate from Grade Teacher, while a beaming Miss Dorothy Nylin, Principal of the school, looks on.

NOBODY HAD TO TELL ANN: As the photographer talked with her teacher, Ann Barry saw some dirt on her desk, and reacted in the expected manner.

CHILDREN IN THE CLASS: Singing The Marine's Hymn.

OVER ONE HALF CENTURY OF SERVICE

CONTINUING THE BUSINESS OF THE LATE GOULD BUCKLE

Candidates' Night at LWV

CANDIDATES NIGHT: At the League of Women Voters, a week ago yesterday. Mrs Mildred Wolff, candidate for the School Committee, is speaking.

L to R: Mrs Henry F Sullivan and Mrs Paul Bodenstein, of the LWV; Mrs Wavie M Drew and Atty James Banda, candidates for Selectmen; Mrs Wolff, John Brooks and Walter McNamara, candidates for the School Committee, and Richard Keane, candidate for the Regional Vocational/Technical School Committee.

Former Selectman John Brooks is still unable to distinguish between fact and fancy.

His first public appearance in political life in three years, last week, at the Candidates Night of the League of Women Voters, found Mr Brooks indulging in fancy as to his part in the choosing of school sites in Wilmington.

Speaking of the increasing cost of school construction Brooks told his audience that he had had a part in the picking of the sites for the last three schools built in Wilmington.

It was a small statement, but it was not in accordance with fact, for the fact is that the sites for the latest three schools to be built in Wilmington had been named, and were a part of the record, before John Brooks was on the Board of Selectmen.

His only part was unsuccessful, - an attempt to have the North School built down in back of the Whitefield School.

Selectman Brooks appeared before the Permanent Building Committee one evening, and told that committee that it would be a shame to build the new school beside 'Wilmington's finest home'. He suggested instead the site behind the Whitefield School.

The PBC had the site checked out, and received a report that there would be three feet of water around any school that was built there, each spring. As a result the North Intermediate School was built where it had originally been planned to be built.

Otherwise Mr Brooks made a good appearance. His hair seemed to be a little darker than it was three years ago, and his waistline a little slimmer. He looked very healthy.

His presentation was good. He told of being a graduate of Boston College and Harvard Law School, and being the Executive Editor of a metropolitan Boston newspaper.

His best idea had previously been suggested by ex-Town Manager Joseph Courtney, back in the 1950's but it was a good one.

Brooks wanted to arrange to have engineers from Avco conduct classes or seminars in Wilmington High School.

He returned to that subject three times during his talk. He relished it. He rolled in it as a cat does in catnip. $18,000 a year engineers teaching in the High School!

It was all very impressive, especially to persons who were meeting him for the first time.

But it didn't seem impressive to at least one person, of the forty six (not counting newspapermen) in the audience. When the time came to send questions, on cards, to the candidates, one arrived with the hard question:

Why was Mr. Brooks a candidate for the School Committee?

John Brooks purred over that one too.

The Other Candidates

None of the other candidates who appeared on the platform (five) used John Brooks' combination of Grand Orator and Soft Sell, in their talks to the audience. Their approach was more simple - more pragmatic, more to the point.

Richard Keane, unpoosed for the position of Member of the Shawsheen Vally Regional Technical School spoke simply, explaining the need for the school.

Mrs Wavie Drew, candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectmen, told of her 43 years of service to the community.

Some people, she declared, said she was too old.

But, she said, she was 77 years old - and proud of it!

James Banda, also a candidate for the Board of Selectmen, spoke more than did Mrs Drew, but stuck to the point. Sometimes, when he had made a point Mrs Drew would interrupt, to say that she agreed with Mr Banda - but she wouldn't use as many words to explain it.

Mitzi Wolff, candidate for the School Board, talked of the Willis-Harrington Report. She felt that most of the people in Wilmington were unacquainted with it.

It was, she said, an attempt to upgrade the schools of Massachusetts, and now that it was published, it was difficult to ignore.

She talked of the education of a child in its first few years, and of School Personnel Policies. She believed that the School Committee should work more thoroughly on Personnel Policies.

Walter McNamara, the third candidate for the School Committee, also spoke on the Willis-Harrington Report.

A professional accountant, he was using the Cost Accountant approach to the problem.

His idea was to try to have Teacher Aides, so that the teachers could devote more time to teaching.

With Teacher Aides, McNamara said, teachers could get up to 200% more time in at teaching.

He was searching, he said, for more quality, and for more quantity, for the children in the schools of Wilmington, and with the limited funds available. With his background of Financial Planning and Control, he thought that he could help in the situation.

NORTH SUBURBAN YMCA SITE OPTION SIGNED

The North Suburban YMCA announced today, that they have recently signed an option for the Baumgardner Trailer Sales Property on Lexington St. in Woburn. This is a shift from the primary site on Cambridge Road at the Woburn Burlington line. Because of difficulty in obtaining the Cambridge Road site from the City of Boston, Y Officials decided to have an alternate site of equal value in terms of building possibilities.

Plans are now being made to have ground breaking this spring for the North Suburban YMCA which will service the following communities: Woburn, Wilmington, Burlington, Bedford, Lexington, and Winchester. The YMCA currently has over $600,000 allocated to this project and hopes to raise an additional sum of money this spring. With the sale of the current facilities on Main Street, a comprehensive facility with a gymnasium, swimming pool, handball courts and health club as well as the administrative unit seems possible.

Y Officials indicate that if interested persons were not contacted to contribute to the Capital Fund Drive in 1967, they may do so this spring by contacting the North Suburban YMCA, 553 Main Street, Woburn, 935-3270.
